Open Meetings Act Training

Frank M. Johnson
April Ishak

Deputy City Attorney, City of Gaithersburg
City Attorney, Havre de Grace

In the 2017 legislative session, the Maryland General Assembly passed legislation requiring at least one member of each public body to take a training class on the Open Meetings Act. Under current law, each public body must designate at least one individual who is an employee, officer, or member to take the training class. While employees or staff can continue to take the training class, at least one member of the public body must be also designated to take the class. This training satisfies the requirement.

Expanding Broadband Across Maryland

Charlotte Davis
John Hartline
Matt Tefreau
Dee Anna Sobczak

Executive Director, Rural Maryland Council
Executive Director, Tri-County Council of Southern MD
Government Affairs Manager, Choptank Electric Cooperative
COO, ThinkBig Networks

The Presentation will inform the Planners of the difficulties of broadband expansion, such as permitting easements, access to right of way, zoning, adequate mapping to address where coverage is needed, and other infrastructural issues of broadband expansion. The presentation will also cover other barriers to broadband expansion such as affordability. Many Marylanders have access to broadband but are unable to afford the cost, therefore opting to go without broadband. The Pandemic has made access to broadband internet more essential than ever. Unfortunately, The Abell foundation reports that 23% of MD households are not connected to highspeed internet.

10:15 - 11:15 am

Leonardtown: A Most Exceptional Place

Laschelle McKay

Town Administrator, Town of Leonardtown

As the only municipality in St. Mary's County, Leonardtown is unique, located 20 miles west of Patuxent River Naval Air Station, which represents 70+ percent of the county's economic activity and revenue. Town staff have been working on long term revitalization efforts, as the town has changed in innumerable ways. Leonardtown faces many challenges common to small municipalities. Laschelle will discuss the rebranding efforts and economic development strategy that led Leonardtown to be one of the fastest growing municipalities in Maryland while maintaining its small-town, walkable charm.

The Benefits of Annual Reporting

Carole Jaar Sepe, M.A.
Denis Superczynski, AICP

Planning Commission, Frederick County
Principal Planner, Frederick County

The Frederick County Planning Commission members have been discussing how to improve the annual report as part of Plan "Livable Frederick" implementation. The PC has been reviewing the state annual report requirement and have learned that only about 50% of counties or municipalities are providing an annual report. This indicates a lack of understanding of the requirement and the value of the reports. Planning Commission members need to get back to the basic and understand the state regulations, why the annual reports are required and necessary, and what are the benefits to the counties and state.

9 - 10 am

Diversity Metrics

Marc Brenman

Author & Managing Partner, IDARE LLC

Most diversity and inclusion initiatives lack good metrics and do not adequately quantify progress. This presentation will show how these programs can find, analyze, evaluate, and measure baseline statistics and progress. The quantification increases accountability and helps direct future efforts by finding what works and what does not. The coastal communities of Maryland and the Southern Maryland region traditionally experience issues of inequity, fairness, and nondiscrimination because of large vulnerable and marginalized populations, repeated environmental justice problems, and a demographic makeup similarity to that of many southern states.

10:15 - 11:15 am

Sandbagging the Flood: Floodplain Variance Requests & What You Can Do to Help Reduce Flooding in Your Community (1 AICP CM Credit)

Kevin Wagner

Board of Zoning Appeals, City of Frostburg

This presentation will provide a brief overview of the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP), your community's responsibilities as part of the program and the important role you play in the process. We'll talk about minimum NFIP requirements, higher regulatory standards adopted by local governments and how these higher standards help reduce flood damage in your community. We'll also talk about how flood prevention techniques can help your community recover more quickly after a flood and be more resilient. The next flood will happen, it's just a matter of when.

A Planner's Role in Addressing Climate Change
(1.5 AICP CM Credits)

Greg Bowen

Executive Director, American Chestnut Land Trust

In this session, Mr. Bowen will explore how planner's working in the Chesapeake Bay watershed can respond to climate change. Threats to which planner's can play an active response role include sea level rise, intensified storms, and destruction of species habitats and wildlife corridors. The session will inform participants of strategies for large landscape conservation and methods through which we can avert a new wave of residential sprawl.

Kipling Reynolds
Victoria Olivier
Sarah Benton, AICP

LAT Manager, Maryland Department of Planning
Citizens Advisory Committee, Anne Arundel County
Division Chief, Community Planning MNCPPC
Planning Supervisor, Howard County Planning & Zoning
Planner Coordinator, MNCPPC

The most important stakeholders in any planning process are a community's citizen planners. Citizen planners include Planning Commissioners, Boards of Zoning Appeals members, Citizen Advisory Committee members, and the public. In this session, staff and citizen planners from Anne Arundel, Prince George's, and Howard Counties will share their experiences engaging citizen advisory committees and the public in comprehensive and master planning efforts.

PRELIMINARY

Keynote Speaker

Lucille Walker has been the Executive Director of the Southern Maryland Heritage Area (also known as Destination Southern Maryland) for the past 5 years. She is the Chair and legislative lead for the Maryland Heritage Areas Coalition, and Vice-Chair of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Development Commission (SMADC). She serves on a number of statewide boards and steering committees and is the Cultural Heritage representative on the Advisory Council for the Mollusks Bay-Potomac River National Marine Sanctuary. Ms. Walker is spearheading the effort for the Southern Maryland Heritage Area (a state-based heritage area) to become the 56th National Heritage Area in the United States. Legislation has been introduced into the U.S. Congress by Senator Ben Cardin and Majority Leader Steny Hoyer, with the support of Senator Chris Van Hollen. This designation will raise the national and international profile of the region. Additionally, this heritage area has created the Maryland Rediscovery 400 initiative, with the purpose of telling a more complete history of Maryland and its beginnings, with a focus on descendant populations, African Americans, and First Peoples, as Maryland looks ahead to the 400th Commemoration. Ms. Walker received her undergraduate degree from St. Mary's College of Maryland, followed by graduate studies at Oxford University. She received her Master's degree in Liberal Arts from St. John's College, Annapolis. Ms. Walker has held numerous positions in leadership and advocacy.

Special Guest

Robert McCord, Esq. is Secretary for the Maryland Department of Planning, providing comprehensive leadership of the Department's mission, objectives, and initiatives. With the Maryland Department of Planning since 2015, he has served as Assistant Secretary of Operations and Deputy Secretary. The secretary comes to the department with private sector and public experience. He worked in private practice in Bel Air, MD before joining the Harford County Law Department in 1998 as Deputy County Attorney, then County Attorney from 2004 -2014. He has seen issues from Western Maryland to the Eastern Shore as a trustee on the Local Government Insurance Trust. He is an Adjunct Professor, University of Baltimore School of Law, 1990 - present. He holds a degree from Loyola University Maryland, B.A. (Business Administration and Philosophy), 1983; M.B.A. (Marketing), 1985; University of Baltimore School of Law, J.D. cum laude, 1989.

Panelists

Frank Johnson has served local government as staff, an appointed official and an elected official, and in those roles has worked on open meetings act issues in several contexts since 2000. He is certified by the Academy for Excellence in Local Governance as an Open Meetings Act trainer. After serving on several local boards and commissions, including the Planning Commission, he was in 2000 elected to the Mt. Airy Town Council, and Mayor in 2006. He has served as an appellate attorney for the U.S. Department of Justice and as Assistant Attorney for Carroll County and Montgomery County, Maryland, and since 2014 the City of Gaithersburg. There he serves as counsel to the Planning Commission, Board of Appeals, Historic District Commission and several other City boards.

April Ishak began her legal career more than 25 years ago representing parties in class and derivative stockholder litigation in the Delaware Court of Chancery after graduating Rutgers University and Rutgers School of Law-Camden. Her interest in municipal law developed while working at the Bel Air law firm which represented municipalities in Harford County. In 2017, April was appointed City Attorney for the City of Havre de Grace. She opened her solo practice in June 2018. The remainder of her legal practice is dedicated to estate planning, estate administration, business law, and civil litigation.

Governor Hogan appointed April in 2015 to serve on the three-member Open Meetings Compliance Board. She was appointed by Governor Hogan to serve on the State Advisory Council on Administrative Hearings. April is a member of the Maryland Municipal Attorneys Association and is General Counsel to the MFRW. In 2020, April began teaching Open Meetings Act classes for the Academy for Excellence in Local Governance. April enjoys spending her spare time boating with her family on the Chesapeake Bay.

Charlotte Davis has over 20 years of professional experience in government, advocacy and political consulting. She has spent over ten years working within the Maryland General Assembly most recently as Chief of Staff for a Committee Chair. She has experience in non-profit management, managing a small organization dedicated to educating and advocating on behalf of Montgomery County, Maryland. In the fall of 2012, Ms. Davis was a part of the successful campaign to change Frederick County's form of government from Commissioner to Charter. Currently, she serves as the Executive Director for the Rural Maryland Council, an independent state agency, which seeks to improve the quality of life while preserving the cultural heritage of Maryland's rural communities. She holds a BA in Government and Politics from the University of Maryland and a MA in Government from Johns Hopkins University. She lives in Middletown, Maryland with her husband and two sons.

John Hartline is the current Executive Director at Tri-County Council For Southern Maryland. The Tri-County Council for Southern Maryland was created as a regional planning and development agency for the tri-county area, consisting of all of Calvert, Charles and St. Mary's Counties. Established by the Maryland State Legislature as a public body corporate and politic to foster the physical, economic and social development of the area. He focuses on fostering collaboration with governmental partners and cooperation across business units to improve business performance and customer satisfaction. John advocates for leadership and in giving our team tools to help customers have a positive experience and measurable steps toward a final successful outcome, both in business and in government.

Matt Teffaeu is the Choptank Electric Cooperative Manager of Government Affairs and a lifelong Marylander. Teffaeu has been involved with politics and advocacy for over 15 years. After graduating from Salisbury University in 2010, he worked for Congressman Andy Harris (MD-01) on Capitol Hill as a Legislative Assistant, handling agriculture and natural resources issues. Later, Teffaeu worked at the Maryland Farm Bureau and the Maryland Department of Agriculture in Government Relations roles. Teffaeu is a 2017 graduate from the LEAD Maryland program. Most recently, he collaborated with the executive team at Choptank Electric and local officials to advocate and pass HB 999, The Rural Broadband for the Eastern Shore Act of 2020 which has enabled the Co-op to pursue broadband services to their members on Maryland's Eastern Shore.

Dee Anna Sobczak is the current COO of ThinkBig Networks. She is operating their Chestertown, MD showroom. ThinkBig is an internet service provider specializing in rural broadband. Our specialty is helping to solve the digital divide in unserved and under-served areas by partnering with local, state and federal government. ThinkBig currently provide internet services in Kent and Queens Anne's County, MD. They have just entered into a P3-agreement with Charles County to bring service to Nanjemoy and parts of Cobb Neck. That approximate 90-mile fiber build will begin 1st quarter 2021 and complete by August 31, 2023.

Laschelle McKay currently serves as the Town Administrator for the Town of Leonardtown. She has held this position since June of 2000. The Town is currently undergoing a renaissance and has many exciting development projects planned or underway. The Town Administrator is responsible for all of the day-to-day operations and management of the Town as well as all capital projects. Two major projects that Laschelle oversaw in her capacity as Town Administrator are the redevelopment of Leonardtown Wharf and the Port of Leonardtown Winery. Ms. McKay oversaw the design, funding and construction of these vital economic development and tourism projects. As Town Administrator, she also oversees coordination of a variety of public events held in the town each year. Additionally, Laschelle currently serves as Board member and Past President of the St. Mary's County Arts Council.
